HIGH PRAISE FOR "EAST IS WEST"

Save the Price Daily Price of "East Is West" which will be at the Opera House Saturday night.

Miss Sinnott was just as sweet and winsome, just as quaint and charming as the possibly could be in the comedy "East Is West" at the Grand Theater last evening, and just as good a word of praise can be said about her, and moreover she was the star of the play from beginning to end. But there are other in the play who deserve the word of praise, and they might as well be mentioned here in the first paragraph, and not in the last, as is often the custom when writing a show notice. Miss Sinnott will not object to this reversal of the order of things, for the support she gets is essential to the setting forth of her own genius as an actress.

First there is William Bonelli as Charlie Yang, a Chinaman, who dresses like an American for commercial purposes. He is supposed to be the villain of the play, and he is a villain, but he is also the comedian, and that makes a combination that is at once unusual. Bonelli has created a part that is distinctly his in Charlie Yang, and without this character the play would lose one of the strongest factors. Then there is Lynn Starling, who appears as Lo Sang, a lovable Chinaman, a real home boy, with love in his heart. Starling when he came on the stage in this part was wholly it and made an excellent impression, interesting his lines as he uttered the circumstances in which he was placed. He added touches of pathos to the performance that furnished the required spice.

Before going further, Butler Maudeville, who took the part of Hop Toy, should be mentioned. Whether anybody recognized him in the audience last evening is not known, but the fact of the matter is that he is a former Utican. When a resident here he was known as Fred Butler, and he has not changed his name to hide his identity, but for stage purposes. He was active in Grace Church when here, and now that the secret is out many will remember him. He has been on the stage for 15 years, and the most important part which he carries in "East Is West" denotes that he is regarded as an actor of ability.

Paul Bryon as Billy Benson, Vernon Kelso as James Potter, both had important parts and played them well. Then there was Ernest E. Pollock as Thomas, the butler, whom you could not help notice, and when the audience may rest assured that the characters have been selected with painstaking care. Kind words of this description might be employed in reference to the rest of the players, for they were all good, and their individual efforts and team work had much to do with the success of the play.

"East Is West" is an unusual production, almost exotic. It smacks strongly of the oriental, with a blend of the occidental. Many of the characters are Chinese, and it has a pungent celestial atmosphere and flavor. It has three scenes. The first is laid in China, where the love boat is shown, to which the Chinese come to purchase young girls for various uses. The next scene is the home of a wealthy Chinaman in San Francisco, and the last shows the interior of an American home, also in San Francisco. The play brings into contrast the civilizations of the east and the west, and this has afforded the playwright an opportunity to say some bright things, to comment brilliantly and to make the lines of the players bristle with the absurd and the ridiculous.

The story of Ming Toy, the heroine of the play, is interesting. She first appears on the love boat, where she is sold and brought to America. Here an evil-minded Chinaman attempts to get her, while an American youth falls in love with her. This is the complication of the story, the only weak spot in which is the conventional ending.

The charm of the play lies in the sweet innocence of the chief character, Ming Toy, a quality which was shown in Miss Sinnott's acting with splendid effect. In voice, gesture and manner she was always a sweet child, but possessing the temper and the wisdom of maturity unspoiled by experience. The performance last evening was both amusing and soothing, and the audience was greatly pleased. The play itself developed naturally and rapidly, and the lines sparkled. There was a note of tenderness throughout, while the element of tragedy was not wanting. All the parts were well taken, and the scenery was notable for its splendor and richness. The music was incidental, but it appeared to sound throughout the play, and added to the sweetness of the performance. The production was entirely unusual, and was greatly enjoyed by an audience that should have been larger.

"The More Shortening the Richer the Cake"—A Common Mis- understanding in Cooking

Equal to Butter in richness, but you use 1/3 to 1/2 less Mazola, and why

ONE great fault with many cooks is to use too much shortening in their cakes and pastries. This very often causes cakes to become heavy and indigestible, and pie crusts soggy and pasty.

All animal fats have this tendency. They contain more or less water. This prevents the heat from breaking up the starch granules properly.

Mazola is free from all moisture, as found in butter, lard and ordinary cooking fats. It is absolutely 100% pure vegetable fat.

Being already a fluid it does not have to be melted. It makes the tedious and timewasting "creaming in" process easier—which is so annoying when you use lard and other old fashioned compounds.

Perfect Pie Crust Easily Made

You can make the most delicious pie crust with Mazola—crisp, brown and flaky. You will want to eat every last morsel of it.

Cakes, bread and biscuits are light and wholesome, for the starch granules are thoroughly broken up. This is one reason that cakes and pies, cooked with Mazola, are better digested than when cooked in animal fats or compounds.

UNITED PRESS WAS THE 'FAKE'

or Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Feb. 10.—The British foreign office today officially informed the British press that the United Press, an American news agency, was solely responsible for the "fake" cablegram which resulted in the Anglo-American war scare. All other news services and newspapers were exonerated.

The foreign office issued its statement after the complete text of the dispatches circulated in the United States had been received here from the British consulate in New York and carefully studied.

The British press now accepts it as a fact that the high paragraph, who gave an audience to the American correspondents at the foreign office on Monday was Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States.

Sir Auckland had intended the conference to be the means of promoting closer understanding between the British and American peoples. It was for that reason, he emphasized, the fact that war between Great Britain and the United States is not only impossible but unthinkable.

The London press continued today to devote columns of news and comment to the incident and it was pointed out that the backdrop of the whole affair rests upon the fact that the American news agency mentioned by the foreign office had misquoted the British ambassador. There is another unfortunate result in addition to the unwarranted "war scare." The mischievous misquotation of the British diplomat has tended to cast reflection upon the accuracy of the American press.

Headlines upon British editorial comment and news despatches show the trend of press sentiment. Some of them follow:

"Concocted War Alarms."—Daily News.

"False Report of Warning."—The Times.

"A Mischievous Message."—Daily Telegraph.

"Hysterical Press Men."—Morning Post.

Some of the newspapers attacked the custom of giving anonymous interviews under any circumstances and The Times lectures the government upon its methods of handling affairs.

"It is intolerable," says The Times, "that matters of such deep moment should be handled in a way that would allow irresponsible correspondents to misrepresent them."

Since the war and before then, pointed The Times, relations with America suffered from the confusion and indecision with which Anglo-American questions were treated in London.

"The facts are notorious," continued The Times, "and everybody who went out to represent us had the same complaint."

The Morning Post seems to sound the keynote of general opinion in its comment, saying:

"The proverbial common sense of the British and American people is surely proof against garbled cablegrams and scare headlines in some newspapers."

General Andrews Now Mentioned To Succeeded Chandler.

Brigadier General Ligon C. Andrews, recently appointed chief of military training for boys of New York state, is mentioned as favorite candidate for superintendent of state police, to succeed Major George F. Chandler, whose resignation takes effect March 1. It is understood leading military men of the state are supporting General Andrews.

General Andrews' present office is expected to be legislated out before many weeks. A bill providing for the abolition of the state military commission has been introduced by Senator John B. Mullen of Rochester. The governor also favors its abolition.

General Andrews, who is a retired United States army officer after thirty years' experience, has served in every conflict since 1866. Major Chandler is leaving the department, which he organized in May, 1917, to devote his time to the medical profession.

INSISTS FORD NEEDS MONEY

or Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 10.—"The Ford Motor Car Company plans to do some financing within the next 30 days, denials from Detroit notwithstanding," said a story sent out today by Dow Jones's new ticker service, a Wall street agency.

"It is understood that a public offering of securities will be made by a syndicate of bankers.

"Henry Ford has heavy Federal debts to meet March 15, and a substantial block of his outstanding notes will mature around that date as well. While there is little question that the bankers holding this paper stand ready to renew it, it is said the Ford Motor Car Company's requirements are greatly in excess of those maturities.

"The amount mentioned is $75,000,000, although it is estimated that $50,000,000 will see him through for a while, at least."

LEWIS WORE SHOCK ABSORBER

Boxing Commission Must Decide As to Apparently Illegal Rubber Mouthpiece That Helped Beaten Britton's Blow—Britton Sorry He "Lost His Head."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 10.—A rubber mouthpiece or shock absorber, worn by Ted (Kid) Lewis in his bout with Jack Britton Monday night, has today furnished a problem for the New York Boxing Commission.

The use of a mouthpiece under the rules which govern boxing in this state is a question the commission will decide and a decision may be handed down tomorrow.

Jack Britton who will be asked to explain his action in hitting one of Lewis's seconds by the commission's claims Lewis violated the rules.

"The referee erred in letting Lewis wear a rubber shock absorber," said Britton today. "It took up the shock of my punches and according to the rules it is illegal. The rules read that a boxer shall wear nothing above the belt but regulation gloves which shall be put on in the ring."

"I'm sorry that I lost my head and hit one of Lewis's seconds but he was ragging me and I was indignant over Ted's action in trying to put one across by spring a mouthpiece on me. Maybe you noticed that I elevated my rights after I discovered it. That was one reason why I kept my left hand against Ted's nose so much."

If confidence is a virtue in a fighter, the welterweight champion is full of it, and if his stamina and craftiness hold out as long as his confidence promises to, he will be the boss of his division for a long time to come.

Here's what he says of Lewis: "Ted has only one style of fighting. That is why I can give him a beating whenever I am in shape as I was Monday night. I can change my style and this always fools Ted. He doesn't know what to expect."

"Lewis is a good fighter. Don't make any mistakes about that. There isn't a man in the game who can lick a sucker better than Ted can. Luckily for me I don't happen to be a sucker as a boxer."

Asked if he ever has entertained the thought of retiring, Britton said:

"Not for a minute. I like to box better than anything else. I've been at it for nineteen years which is pretty good proof. I'm still a world's champion at an age when most boxers are ready to hang up their gloves. Why should I return? Perish the thought!"

BOMBARDIER'S CREW RESCUED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, Feb. 10.—Rescue at sea about 600 miles off Halifax of the officers and crew of the sinking Belgian steamship Bombardier, New York for Antwerp, by the United States shipping board steamship Mount Clay, was told in radio messages to the naval station at Otter Cliffs, Maine, today and relayed to the Boston Navy Yard.

"Two lifeboats adrift," the radio added and this puzzled naval officers.

The Bombardier, in distress, began sending S. O. S. messages broadcast two days ago. The Mount Clay and several other steamships responded. Apparently the Mount Clay was the first to reach the side of the sinking vessel.

Meanwhile the officers and crew of the Bombardier had taken to the lifeboats and were standing near their disabled ship which was likely to go down at any minute.

Radiograms to Otter Cliffs from the steamship Adriatic told of the rescue of the men in the lifeboats which occurred at daylight this morning. The message read:

"Steamship Bombardier sinking. Latitude 45:23 north, longitude 54:10 west. Crew rescued at daylight Feb. 10 by steamship Mount Clay. Ship will float few hours yet. Two life boats adrift."

BRADFORD SENDS FIRST MESSAGE

Detroit Woman Announces That His Spirit Is Near but Too Weak to Make Meaning Clear and May Not Become Strong Enough for Agency.

(Copyright, 1921, by the Detroit Times.)

(Copyright, 1921, by International News Service.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Detroit, Feb. 10.—The spirit of Thomas Lynn Bradford has gone to a higher plane but it will be some time before its message will be heard on earth.

What Bradford, in his astral form, hopes to tell those to whom he promised he would communicate after his death, must remain vague and indefinite, because Bradford's spirit is so weak now he can send a message to earth.

The very means by which Bradford hoped to prove that the dead can communicate with the living has prevented his experiment from being successful thus far.

This is the belief of Mrs. Lulu Mack, 200 Brady street, a life long student of telepathy and spiritualism, who says she has heard the spirit voice of Prof. Thomas Lynn Bradford calling from the "great beyond."

Bradford has entered into the first sphere of the heavenly constellation. Mrs. Mack said today. She said, as his spirit is weak and purified, it will pass into higher spheres. When it has reached the second or third sphere, Bradford's spirit may have become strong enough to communicate with the world. Mrs. Mack believes, that she says this may take years, or even ages.

Mrs. Mack believes she is the first person on earth to have felt the presence of Bradford's astral being and to have heard his spirit voice.

Mrs. Mack's statement to the Times is reprinted here.

"Life has led from the body of Thomas Lynn Bradford, but his spirit is hovering near at hand and calling to us to hear his message."

"I have heard the call of his spirit. It is calling to me even now. But I can not hear the message it would send, because the spirit is too weak."

"Something is troubling the professor's spirit. In fact it may be that the very act by which he hoped to prove to the doubtful that the beings of the spirit and physical worlds can communicate with each other, has weakened his spirit, thus preventing his message from reaching us."

"Last night I felt that someone from the other world desired to communicate with me. I went to my bedroom and together we held a séance. It was then that Bradford's spirit voice reached me."

"I had never heard of the professor and did not even know that a Detroit man ended his life to prove his beliefs. However, his spirit kept calling."

"Thomas Bradford, Thomas Bradford! At the end of the séance I asked my medium when Thomas Bradford might have been."

"She explained to me."

"Bradford is not dead. He is still only in a physical way. His spirit still remains among us as it did when it provided his body with what we call life."

"The astral being of Professor Bradford leaves and sees the things

Playing His Last Good Bye!

The night before he had been a great musician, playing to rapturous thousands. Now he was just a plain old mother's "baby," playing to her and the girl he loved. Perhaps he should play no more—perhaps not see them again.

So he played "HUMORESQUE"—that laugh on life, with a tear behind it—and was gone! Where? Why? A story that blends the stum and the avenue, the din and the music, the sorrow and smiles of life in a happy melody, silently played on the screen.

STRAND BUSINESS CHANGES COMING

When Several Firms Will Change Locations on Downtown's Business Block in Spring, Including Enlarging of Lyric Theater.

There are several business changes now being planned for this spring, including the enlarging of the Lyric Theater on the Strand. The theater is located in the L. O. O. F. building, owned by Abram Handler, and Architect Thomas P. Rice is preparing plans for the enlarging of the theater.

The lower floor of the L. O. O. F. building on the Strand is occupied by two stores and the theater. Adjoining the theater is the shoe store of Alton Brothers, who will vacate about the first of April and the store occupied by them will be used in enlarging the theater.

The store adjoining Alton Brothers was occupied by Marks Joseph, the merchant tailor, but has been vacated since Mr. Joseph removed to his present location at No. 7 Broadway.

It is understood that Baker & Son's five and ten cent store will vacate their present location about the first of April and occupy the L. O. O. F. building adjoining the enlarged Lyric Theater.

The building now occupied by Baker & Son is owned by Alton Brothers, and it is said that they will occupy the store, when vacated by Baker & Son, as a shoe store.

The enlarged Lyric theater will be conducted by I. Berger, who recently bought the business of Julius Stone and has been running it successfully ever since. Mr. Berger has found that the theater is not large enough to accommodate his many patrons.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, 10.—Although there were mixed changes at the opening of the stock market today, the tone during the first 15 minutes was generally strong. Special attention was devoted to the copper group because of the completion of financing for the purpose of carrying surplus copper. Anaconda was in brisk demand from the start, moving up over 1 point to 39 3/4, and inspiration after opening down 1/4 at 35 1/4, advanced to 36. Reading was especially influenced by the announcement that the plan for dissolution has been submitted to the authorities at Washington and there was a moderate demand for the common which opened up 1/4 at 83 1/4.

Crucible Steel made a sharp advance to 34 1/2 and only small fractional changes were noted in the other steel industrials. Steel Common sold at 82 1/2. American Woolen was fairly active advancing two points to 95 1/2. American Linseed was another strong feature advancing 1 1/2 to 58 1/2. Mexican Petroleum rose 1 point to 158 1/2 and then reacted to 158. Standard Oil was ex-dividend 1/2 percent, selling at 55 1/2, unchanged from yesterday's closing. Sears Roebuck opened down 1 point to 86. Continental Candy was heavily traded in, declining 1/4 to 11 1/2.

The copper stocks featured the trading during the forenoon. Anaconda rose 1 1/2 to 39 3/4. American Smelting rose 1 1/2 to 44 and Utah rose 2 1/2 to 57 1/2. Lower priced copper also shared in the advance. Outside of the movement in this group, the market showed a generally steady tone with frequent advances and reactions in many of the other industrials. Mexican Petroleum after reacting to 158 rose to 159. Reading after selling at 35 1/2, rebounded to 36 1/2 and the first preferred yielded 3/4 to 51. Steel Common was steady at 82 1/2.

Little interest was shown in the trading during the afternoon, and price movements were very narrow, the leading issues being practically unchanged from the midday range. Steel Common after yielding to 82 1/2, rose to 82 3/4.

HARDING AT WORK;
GUESSING RESUMED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

St. Augustine, Florida, Feb. 10—

One thing is certain about the Harding cabinet. It is not yet selected.

That fact was authoritatively learned today when the president-elect took up again the routing of work laid aside for nearly three weeks on his vacation trip.

The three weeks have resulted in some important changes in the tentative cabinet line-up. Charles Evans Hughes still is first choice for secretary of state and strenuous opposition has not served to displace Harry M. Daugherty for attorney general. Will H. Hays for postmaster general and Henry M. Wallace for secretary of agriculture.

Charles G. Dawes apparently has eliminated himself from the treasury portfolio. Andrew W. Mellon still is a leading selection for the treasury but his appointment is regarded as by no means assured.

Former Senator Weeks is counted on to fill some cabinet post. John Hays Hammond is slated as the latest cabinet possibility. Mr. Harding stated today that he had been insistent recommended for secretary of the interior, but the strength of Senator Fall for that post indicates that Hammond may be shifted to the Department of Commerce.

The elimination of Dawes has left a wide open door for the entrance of Frank O. Lowden to the cabinet.

ST. JOSEPH'S HOLY NAME

To Receive Over One Hundred Members Sunday Evening.

On Sunday evening, February 12, at St. Joseph's Church there will be a reception of new members into the Holy Name Society. Over a hundred men will be received into the society as a result of the canvass of the parish which has recently been conducted under the direction of the reverend spiritual director and the officers of the society. The ceremony of reception is very impressive and will be preceded by musical vespers sung by the Holy Name Choir.

A sermon will be preached by a Dominican father and it is expected that all the men of the parish will be present as this is the most important meeting of the year.

The services will begin at 8 p. m. Sunday.

THREE AIR MAIL MEN KILLED

By Telegraph to The Freeman
La Crosse, Wis., Feb. 10.—Government officials began an inquiry today into the death of three aviators in the Chicago-Minneapolis air mail service who were killed here when their plane caught fire after an explosion in mid-air. Pilots W.
L. Carroll of Minneapolis and Arthur Rowe of Chicago and Mechanic Robert B. Hill of Havana, Ill., were the victims.

The death of the three fliers brings the list of victims of accidents involving the German-made type of all metal monoplanes in the United States air service to seven, according to available records.

Gas escaping from a broken tube connecting the gas tank with the carburetor is believed to have caused vaporage in the enclosed fuselage which a spark from a short circuit ignited, an explosion resulting. It is reported also that an oil pump failed to function thus causing the engine to become overheated.
Some air mail officials believe this may have caused the explosion.

The plane was approaching the landing grounds at Salzer Field after two forced landings for repairs at Clifton Junction and Long Rock. The machine was about 700 feet in the air when attendants at Salzer Field saw a burst of flame and heard an explosion. The plane dropped to earth and when attendants reached the scene the men were dead.

The bodies are being held here pending instructions from the air mail service.

Phoenixia vs. Hunter.

On Saturday evening, February 12, the Phoenixia and Hunter basketball teams will meet for the second time on the new court, in Shandegon Hall, Albany.

The first game played a few weeks ago resulted in a well earned victory for the Phoenixia team and proved to be one of the most interesting of the many well played games at Shandegon Hall this season. The Hunter boys are confident of being able to avenge for this defeat, and another interesting contest is anticipated. Play will be called promptly at 8:00 and there will be dancing after the game with music by Mead's orchestra.

Those Christmas cigars may help solve the fuel problem. Save them—they may come in handy before the winter is over.—Oconomowoc (Wis.)
